PLUG IS KNOCKED OUT BY FLOATER

Body of Drowned Tie Hand Almost Sinks Dry Dock

Thomas Parker, Colored, Fell From Margaret and Disappeared Last Monday.

RECOVERED IN ODD MANNER.

Tragedy nearly caused catastrophe at the Paducah dry docks last night at 6 o'clock. The plug to one section was knocked out and it was prevented from sinking only by the wife of the night watchman, Charley Brigmeyer, hearing a thumping noise under the docks. This morning at 5 o'clock the cause of the accident became startlingly apparent when the dead body of Thomas Parker, the colored tie hand who fell off the tow boat Margaret a week ago today and was drowned, shot up between two sections of the dry docks.

When Parker fell off the Margaret last Monday, he shouted to the men on the boat that he could get along all right; but he suddenly went under and was never seen again until this morning at 5 o'clock. The most consistent explanation of his sinking only once is that the strong suction at the head of the dry docks pulled him under. Charles Brigmeyer, the Belgian watchman at the dry docks went to the section of the docks this morning, where he had found the plug out the night before. As he was standing looking at the ten feet expanse of water between the two sections of the docks, a dead body shot head first out of the water waist high before it fell back.

Brigmeyer was impelled back several paces by the shock of the startling appearance of the body. Immediately remembering that Parker's body was supposed to be under the docks, and he quickly grabbed a rope and secured the body to the docks.

With the appearance of Parker's body, Brigmeyer knew why the plug had been knocked out of one section of the dry docks. The thumping noise, which his wife heard Sunday night, was Parker's body hitting against the bottom of the docks. The time had expired when the body naturally would remain under water, and its effort to reach the surface caused it to repeatedly hit the plug, finally dislodging it.

Sunday night Brigmeyer replaced the plug and pumped out the water, but the thumping continued until the body came to the surface this morning. Saturday they were raising and lowering several of the sections of the dry docks, and the body is supposed to have been dislodged from some obstructions. A deep cut had been received across the right cheek, but otherwise the body was perfectly preserved.

It was carried to an undertaking establishment and will be buried today by relatives.

OLDEST ENGINEER ON I. C. RAILROAD

John L. McGuire Dies Suddenly at Fulton

Met With Three Serious Accidents, Which Crippled Him For Life—His Escapes.

BURIED WITH MASONIC HONORS

John L. McGuire, 56 years old, the oldest engineer in term of service on the Illinois Central, died Saturday night at 8:30 o'clock in Fulton. He had just pulled his train into the station, resigned his engine to the hostler and gone to his boarding house when seized with a fit of coughing. A blood vessel in his throat burst and death followed in a short time. The body was brought back to Paducah on the train he was to have brought in Sunday morning at 7:45 o'clock, and was taken to the home on the Pool road. This afternoon at 2 o'clock the funeral was held at the home and a special train composed of an engine, coach and baggage car, conveyed the body from the union station to Trimble street, where it was placed in the hearse and taken to Oak Grove cemetery. The funeral was held with Masonic honors, and largely attended.

John L. McGuire was born in Erie, Pa., June 13, 1851, but reared in Tennessee. At the age of 15 years he began railroading as helper on the Nashville and Northwestern at Nashville. After three years' service he came to Paducah to work on the New Orleans and Ohio, now the Illinois Central.

He worked on the section and while trying to board a construction train, fell under the wheels. His spine was dislocated, causing him to be stooped permanently; his head crushed and feet injured and for eleven months he remained in bed. Recovering he was made a brakeman when the road extended between Paducah and Union City and but one train was run daily, composed of engineer, fireman, conductor and three brakemen. In 1871 when the road was extended to Rives, Tenn., he was made fireman under H. Norton and fired the first train to Rives. In 1873 he became an engineer and was given charge of a pile driver outfit. For one year and a half he remained on the pile driver.

His second accident occurred January 27 1875, at Boaz Station, a few miles south of Paducah. The engine No. 5, was standing on the track motionless. Without warning it exploded. The smoke stack went 400 yards away, the fire box on top of the Boaz depot and Engineer McGuire was blown into a tree 50 yards distance. His injuries, a triple fracture of the right leg and a bruised body, laid him up eight months.

On recovering he got a coal run between Paducah and Fulton and December 20, 1876, when the road was completed to Newbern, Dyersburg and Covington he ran to these stations. On August 12, 1882, the road was completed to Memphis and McGuire had the distinction of pulling the first train bearing the officials mayor and council of Paducah to Memphis where the golden spike, marking the ending of the road, was driven. He was given a regular passenger run after that between Paducah and Memphis and held it until death.

In 1883 his third serious accident occurred. He was going south at Ripley, Tenn., when a box car came wildly down a steep grade. It struck his engine and knocked it into the ditch, rode over the baggage car and wrecked itself against the bank. McGuire was taken from under his engine with few bruises, his escape having been miraculous.

Because of his advanced age and long service, he was given his choice of the accommodation runs between Paducah, Fulton and Memphis. A few years ago he gave up the fast flyer and took the accommodation run which he had since held.

John L. McGuire was a popular railroad and lodge man. He was a member of the Brotherhood of Railway Engineers, Masons and Knights and Ladies of honor and took a great interest in each. He represented the engineers in the local Illinois Central hospital board. He leaves a wife and brother, Mr. J. B. McGuire, of Pouteneith and Clay streets, a grocer; two sisters, Mrs. Frances Schoffner, of this city, and Mrs. Mary Dean, of Union City, and the following children: Mrs. Margaret E. Gossett, wife of John Gossett, Paducah; Mrs. Mabel Maude Schoffner, wife of Mr. Dean Schoffner; Mrs. Mamie Jane Andrecht, wife of Mr. Frank Andrecht, and Mr. John Norman McGuire, an engineer for the Illinois Central, all of the city.

BUILD PAVEMENT ALONG BROADWAY

Mayor Yeiser Anxious to See Work Started From Ninth Street to Twenty-Fifth as Soon as Weather Permits

ALDERMEN CALLED TOGETHER.

In order that there may be no unnecessary delay in starting the work of laying sidewalks and concrete gutters and curbs on Broadway from Ninth street, the present terminus, to Twenty-fifth street, Mayor Yeiser has summoned the board of aldermen in special session to pass the enabling ordinance on its final reading. It will be introduced in the board of councilmen tonight and given final passage two weeks hence. Did not the aldermen pass the ordinance tonight, it would have to lay over until the first meeting night in May, as two weeks must intervene between the readings after the ordinance is introduced. Where the property owners dedicate the land, the street will be widened. Otherwise it will remain at its present width.

PERSONALTY IS BEING SOLD.

Sale of eight pieces of real estate of E. Rehkopf, bankrupt, held at the county court house this morning at 10 o'clock by Trustee A. E. Boyd, Cecil Reed auctioning, brought $48,471, a fair price. The appraisement of the real estate amounted to a little less than $70,000. Bidding was lively and a large crowd of Paducah capitalists were present.

Sales this morning were as follows: Collar shop, 311 Kentucky avenue to W. R. Holland, $6,500. House and lot, 433 Washington street, W. R. Holland, $3,000. Tan yard property in Mechanicsburg, to W. F. Bradshaw, Sr., $10,500.

House and lot, 220 South Fifth street, George L. Allison, $2,025. Homestead, 421 Washington street Mrs. J. E. Walters $6,796.

The machinery in the tan yard in Mechanicsburg with leather goods stored in the building, and rye straw in the collar shop, valued at $6,000, is being sold this afternoon.

John G. Rehkopf, one of the creditors in the E. Rehkopf individual bankrupt case, filed a petition in Referee E. W. Bagby's court prior to the sale asking that it be suspended. He alleged that the decision of the court ordering the sale had been appealed, and that this would cast a cloud on the titles and might cause the trustee to get undervalued prices. Referee Bagby dismissed the petition.

FROST AND ICE WERE SEEN TODAY

Early Risers are Greeted With Wintry Scene, But Much of the Fruit is Too Far Advanced to be Hurt

WHOLE OHIO VALLEY FELT IT.

Weather predictions for tonight indicate heavy frosts, but it is probable that the weather man is 24 hours late. Ice and frost were both visible this morning. Truck gardeners report frost on the young tomatoes, on the strawberry plants and other developing vegetables. It is not likely that much damage resulted. Cold was preferable to rain on Easter, but even the cold would not have been disagreeable but for the high wind that blew all day. Considering the fact that Easter this year is 15 days ahead of last year, the weather was not objectionable. Warm weather is predicted to immediately follow this cold spell. Altogether, March, 1907, has been the most pleasant and beautiful first month of spring within the memory of many people. Little rain has fallen and no snow within the memory of many people. Little rain has fallen and no snow with few radical changes in temperature, and some of the time, genuine summer weather.

Frosts Everywhere.

Cincinnati, April 1.—Reports from southern Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky tell of heavy frosts last night. Ice formed in many places. Early vegetables were almost completely destroyed. Fruit trees were in bloom in many places and it is feared the crop is badly damaged.

WHITE MAN FOUND AFLOAT IN RIVER

Word reached the police station today that the body of a white man was taken from the Ohio river opposite Metropolis this afternoon. A special from Metropolis says the body is that of a young white man, well dressed that had been in the water about 15 days.

PAINTERS GO OUT ON STRIKE TODAY

Some Contractors Fail to Sign The Scale

St. Louis Breweries Become Open Shops and Six Thousand Go Out At Troy.

HOD CARRIERS ARE WORKING

Forty union painters are idle in Paducah today because four out of the seven union contractors have not signed the new scale for an increase from 35 to 40 cents the hour. Those who signed are Robert McCune, Claude Creason and Bob Long. Those who have not are Charles Warren, Walter Bell, Fred Perry and Robert Tyree. McCune does more carriage painting and sign work than house painting, and employs few men. Creason and Long, however, are strong contractors. Until the four holding out, agree to the scale, union painters declare they will not return to work. It is expected that some agreement will be reached this week. There is a great deal of painting work to be done this spring in Paducah.

Hod Carriers.

J. W. Clark, president of the Hod Carriers' union today said that while very near all of the contractors have signed the new wage scale agreement for the ensuing year, there were some details to yet straighten out and that the union would take them up tonight. Most of the hod carriers are at work today, and there is no strike, as has been reported in some circles today. The hod carriers now receive $2 for brick $2.25 for mortar carrying. They ask for $2.40 and $2.60 for brick and mortar carrying, respectively.

St. Louis Breweries Open. St. Louis, April 1.—The open shop was put into effect this morning in the St. Louis and East St. Louis breweries. They will not be recognized as unions. All competent persons who apply for work will be given employment. Hundreds of union or non-union men, no questions being asked, were given work at many large plants. Brewery workers are endeavoring to persuade the engineers to join the strike.

Six Thousand Out. Troy, N. Y., April 1.—Plumbers, teamsters and woodworkers went on a strike this morning. All demand an increase of wages. About 6,000 men are affected.

MOTHERHOOD

The first requisite of a good mother is good health, and the experience of maternity should not be approached without careful physical preparation, as a woman who is in good physical condition transmits to her children the blessings of a good constitution.

Preparation for healthy maternity is accomplished by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which is made from native roots and herbs, more successfully than any other medicine because it gives tone and strength to the entire feminine organism, curing displacements, ulceration and inflammation, and the result is less suffering and more children healthy at birth. For more than thirty years has been the standby of American mothers in preparing for childbirth. Note what Mrs. James Chester of 457 W. 35th St., New York says in this letter: "Dear Mrs. Pinkham: I wish every expectant mother knew about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. A neighbor who had learned of its great value at this trying period of a woman's life urged me to try it and I did so, and I cannot say enough in regard to the good it did me. I recovered quickly and am in the best of health now."

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is certainly a successful remedy for the peculiar weaknesses and ailments of women. It has cured almost every form of Female Complaints, Dragging Sensations, Weak Back, Falling and Displacements, Inflammation, Ulcerations and Organic Diseases of Women and is invaluable in preparing for Childbirth and during the Change of Life.

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women
Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. Her advice is free.

NEW YORK LETTER.

New York, April 1.—A splendid production of the new Pixley-Luders musical comedy, called "The Grand Mogul", is the only absolutely new offering of the week, and it was placed on view at the New Amsterdam theater on Monday night. The piece, as well as the performance, went with a vim and rush that seem to set it down as a "hummer." "The Grand Mogul" has been played in other larger cities for two months or so, and on this account requires no description at the present time beyond the mere statement that it is highly entertaining, with a large number of melodious numbers, a superb setting, a great number of magnificent costumes and a large and excellent company. It has been put on with the customary regal munificence of Klaw and Erlanger in these matters, and seems likely to enjoy the hearty support and good will of the metropolis for a long time to come.

The metropolitan opera season is said to have resulted in a loss approximating $100,000, attributed by Mr. Conried in part to having produced "Salome," which was practically a dead loss; and in part to the San Francisco earthquake, which destroyed a great deal of scenery and numerous properties and costumes. The San Francisco disaster did not occur this year, and so those particular losses had nothing at all to do with the present season, but should have been charged up to last year. Mr. Hammerstein's financial statement, on the other hand, shows an actual profit, although not a very big one. Still it is a profit, where the Manhattan Opera House manager was prepared to lose—and fully expected to lose $200,000 between autumn and spring. The actual result has made it thoroughly certain that his subscription for next season will amount to $300,000 or $400,000 at the very least. This fact, together with the losses at the Metropolitan, proves that Mr. Hammerstein has given Mr. Conried a run for his money such as that manager by no means believed possible. Mr. Conried started in by smiling in a very superior and sardonic way whenever the Hammerstein enterprise was mentioned. But nowadays "it don't seem like the same old smile."

Mr. Sothern and Miss Marlowe, it must be said with regret, will play their London engagement under more than the ordinary handicap that must be carried by American stars, making their first appearance in the British metropolis. The theater in which they are to appear—the Waldorf—has had nothing but failures from the time it was built, and this is due not alone to the matter of mere chance, but to the fact that the house is very badly situated and is in itself unworthy the name of theater. The seats on the ground floor are bad enough, but those in the gallery are indescribably worse. The pitch of that portion of the auditorium is so steep that the occupants of the top row are practically roosting upon the edge of a precipice, and all that they can possibly see of the actors is the very tops of their heads. Behind the footlights the stage is so meagre that it can accommodate one production at a time, and probably even that in the present instance may have to be cut down in order to fit. There is no scene loft (in London they call it a "dock"), so that the pictorial embellishments of the Sothern-Marlowe repertoire will have to be kept in a store house, to be taken out piece by piece when wanted. The dressing rooms would be considered disgraceful in a water tank theater in America. Even the star dressing room is a mere cubby hole, which (at least up to the time of the engagement of Brechman Tree at the Waldorf) contained no other convenience than a single cold water tap. Mr. Tree had to send out and buy a gasoline water heating apparatus before he was able to properly remove the make-up from his face. If, under these circumstances, Mr. Sothern and Miss Marlowe were to fail in their forthcoming London engagement, the responsibility would not rest upon them but upon the management that has sent them to meet the test of the greatest and most conservative city in the world.

Work upon the new Stayvesant theater, to be occupied by David Belasco with new productions exclusively, is being pushed with extraordinary rapidity. The fine weather of the past few days has made it sure that the structure will be fully roofed almost immediately, and from that point onward progress will not be hindered. The Stayvesant will have a stage of uncommonly large dimensions, fitted with every known modern device, together with several others that are the personal inventions of Mr. Belasco, and are designed for the presentation of "effects," atmospheric and otherwise, such as have never before appealed to the public eye. Mr. Belasco's surprising ingenuity, even with the ordinary facilities, has been subject of amazement and delight for years, and it may be anticipated without undue optimism that given the wholly new paraphernalia to be afforded by the Stayvesant construction he will far surpass any of his achievements hitherto noted.

The reappearance of Raymond Hitchcock inside the jurisdiction of New York state is awaited with rapid interest by a considerable number of persons, principally in Harlem.

Down at Luna Park they are already making ready for the opening of the season, although that event is still some weeks away. Nearly one thousand workmen have for some time been employed in executing the

A Maker of History

Author of "The Master Mummer," "A Prince of Sinners," "Mysterious Mr. Sabin," etc.

Illustrated by Berger

This is one of the most thrilling, absorbing, fascinating stories yet written by the author, with a mystery the most baffling. Important personages in the diplomatic and official life of England, France, Germany and Russia have a place in the story, and the ingenuity of the secret police of three countries is involved in the maze of incident, plot, and counterplot through which the reader is carried.

Above all looms the pathetic figure of Phyllis Poynton's blind lover, a strong man held in the chains of the one overwhelming passion of his life, forced to sit idle and helpless, but at last

Back into the world where dreams are only the cobwebs of time and a man's work grows beneath his hands like a living statue to the immortals. I feel my hands upon it and the great winds blowing. Thank God!

Not since the days of "The Prisoner of Zenda" has a more enjoyable novel come out of the romantic semi-humorous mazes of European border intrigue. The story proceeds with cumulative interest to the end.—New York Times.

improvements and alterations provided for in the plans personally prepared by the interesting young genius, Frederic Thompson. In many respects Luna Park will be a practically new amusement resort this season, and there is every reason to expect that, as invariably in the past, it will be the leading centre of attraction of Coney Island.

People have been wondering why it was that Fannie Ward, the American actress who married an exceedingly wealthy Englishman and settled down several years ago to domestic life in London, should have returned to the stage. The fact is that Mr. Lewis, the husband in the case, has "gone broke."

The Chicago engagement of David Warfield in "The Music Master" will cover six weeks, having been extended somewhat from the first intention by reason of the stupendous receipts elsewhere. The business done by Warfield, without any exception whatsoever, has been far, very far, in excess of the record of any other star in this country at regular prices. It is the talk of the amusement world.

Mr. Mansfield made a speech before the curtain the other night at the close of his New York engagement at the New Amsterdam theater, saying that he wasn't in the habit of pummeling the female members of his company any more than being accustomed to heaving legs of mutton at offending waiters. All this of course will be readily believed, as it should be, for Mansfield is very far from being a ruffian. On the other hand, it is undoubtedly a fact that he is often cruel with his tongue, saying bitter and cutting things to those in his employ, male and female. Personally and out of business hours Mansfield is one of the most charming and companionable men and one of the most delightful hosts in all the world.

"Brewster's Millions" at the Hudson theater, sails right along without impediment and will run all summer, unless Mr. Thompson concludes to give his company a brief vacation. The entertainment is one of the really great hits of the season.

R. G. Knowles, who has several times circled the globe as a vaudeville star, has turned his attention to superbly illustrated lectures of travel and adventure, and has made a hit that must be very gratifying to him. His New York audiences at Carnegie Hall and elsewhere have been large numerically and liberal in their demonstrations of approval.

We have made preparations for a large attendance, and cordially invite you one and all to come and see the wonderful workings of this, the latest improvement in Gas Stoves.

DIRECT ACTION

Means just what the word implies. You put the baking right in the cold oven before or right after the stove is lighted. This seems unusual, doesn't it? But nevertheless it is so. Come and see for yourself.

One cent's worth of gas will heat the oven and do a quick baking. Could you ever do it with your old one?

HOW DOES IT DO IT?

This answer is simple. It is all in the oven construction. Burners are right in with the oven, with nothing between them and the cooking.

Baptist Sunday School Primary Class Entertains Older Pupils on Easter

Accepting an invitation to spend half an hour with the little folks of the primary department, the teachers of the intermediate and advanced classes of the First Baptist Sunday school were given a treat yesterday morning that most of them will remember so long as they live. At the conclusion of the regular period allotted to the study of the lesson the intermediate and advanced classes, omitting the usual closing exercises, and marched from the main auditorium of the church to the rooms in the basement where the primary classes are taught. The number of pupils present in the primary department was 171, exceeding the number of visitors by eleven, and making a total attendance of 331. Plans for the visit had been laid by the teachers of the primary department and the little folks entering into the spirit of the occasion went through their opening and closing exercises in a manner to reflect great credit upon their several teachers and upon their superintendent, Mrs. E. L. Atkins. The Sunday school work in this department consists of a regular program of responsive exercises, a brief talk upon the lesson by the superintendent and a song march. During the march the children pass the contribution box upon the platform and deposit their pennies. As it is now conducted the primary department of the Sunday school is a new departure. The children are divided into eight classes each of which has a teacher. The three youngest classes including children under 7 years of age are taught by kindergarten methods and each class is supplied with a sand table, arranged each Sunday to depict the facts and theme of the lesson to be studied.

Since the primary department was reorganized three months ago the attendance has grown from 50 to 60 each Sunday to more than 150. The credit for this good work is due chiefly to Mrs. Atkins, the superintendent, whose short talk to the pupils yesterday morning upon the subject of the resurrection won the admiration and commendation of every one present. She has the happy faculty of illustrating deep truths in a simple manner and her talk interested many of the older ones quite as much as it did the children. At the conclusion of the exercises the entire school joined in the singing of "The Old Time Religion."

That is not a virtuous life which does no more than abstains from a few vices and contributes no virtues to the world.—Chicago Tribune.

Will Be Heard By Thaw Lunacy Commission.

New York, April 1.—District Attorney Jerome was a nominal victory before the Thaw lunacy commission.

when the board decided that it will hear his experts. This decision followed a dispute between the lawyers in the case, in which Jerome several times lost his temper and after he had made a warm plea that the experts, whom he confessed it costs him $800 a day to retain, should be heard.

After reaching this decision, the session ended and it was announced that the hearing would be resumed at 10:30 Tuesday morning.

Daily Thought.

Those ills which fate determine man must bear.—Theocritus.

As The Sun predicted President Roosevelt will not go to Illinois and prophesy in minute detail just what he is going to do about railroad regulation. If he did, the railroad manipulators and stock jobbers, who have been misrepresenting his attitude and trying to discredit him and precipitate a panic, would proceed to confound him and make his preconceived policy ridiculous, placing him in the position of changing front and appearing inconsistent and vacillating, or of persisting in a course that circumstances, more or less artificial, rendered ineffectual. President Roosevelt has but one policy of life and conduct in office: "the square deal." Everybody is going to get that from him, but the idea of a square deal makes some people wince. Several railroad men, as distinguished from railroad manipulators, have come out publicly in favor of Roosevelt's policy. President Harahan, of the Illinois Central, favors publicity. He is a railroad man, reared on a right of way and trained in an office. He knows railroad management better than he knows stock manipulation. It will not do for the country at this hour to heed the voice of the tempter and go back on the president. It is now that the administration needs the support of the people. There will be an effort made by powerful interests to discredit the administration to the end that elements inimical to the interests of the people may dictate to the next Republican national convention. Falling in that, as they probably will, the Democratic national organization will be approached as it was when Parker was nominated.

We trust the example set by the High school alumni will be followed hereafter and that Arbor Day will always be observed in Paducah. It would not be a bad idea for the progressive women to bring the matter to the attention of the next legislature and have the occasion recognized by the state. Teaching the children the care of and interesting them in the culture of trees is part of the general idea of education.

Not all the millions Andrew Carnegie has given to the founding of libraries and different benefactions has done as much good as his simple declaration that he knows nothing of Wall street methods, that he never reads Wall street reports in the papers, and that Wall street manipulators have nothing to do with real business. Andrew, like many another, may have accepted conditions as he found them, and turned many a pretty trick in the steel business, but he is no gambler and he makes haste to disclaim any connection with Wall street. In recent years we have allowed ourselves to confuse dealing in stock and market futures without any contemplated delivery as legitimate business, although the law has always held otherwise, and the youth of the country has been given the impression that all the great fortunes are made in Wall street speculations. Such an emphatic expression coming from a man of so many millions as Andrew Carnegie possesses furnishes a lesson to many a misguided elder, who would do well to pass it on to his children.

Ohio is just now the maneuvering grounds of the forces that must clash before the Republican national convention. Whether or not Foraker is to be the opposition candidate to Taft, it is evident that his office is to scuttle the Taft boat. No doubt the senior senator sees the necessity of fighting for self-preservation, and it was a bold thing to challenge Taft to contest before the people for the presidency on the one hand, and Congressman Burton to contests for the senatorship at the same time. The suggestion that the contest be limited to Foraker and Taft, the beaten one to retire permanently from public life, does not fit the Foraker temperament. It has been Foraker's policy always to aim ostensibly at the higher office and then accept the lower.

"A stitch in time" is Fairbank's motto, as he binds up the seams of his presidential chances. Fairbanks expects to get there in the Hemenway, according to advices from his home state.

"Roosevelt Luck!" The more we think of it, the more we are convinced it is sheer luck when the country elects a man like Roosevelt to office.

Prophecies of the autumn are in evidence at Benton. It's "Tater Day." They can catch the 'possums when the time is ripe.

March almost forgot the order of its going.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Court's Investigation.

Through a party organ, officials, who have always shown their hostility to me, have asserted that they would investigate my conduct in relation to a recent case. Such disputes, which are merely for political purposes, are distasteful to me, but in justice to myself I must say that I have been grossly misrepresented, and not only am willing to submit to investigation, but invite one.

Dr. H. T. WILLIAMSON,
City Physician.

TIME EXTENDED.

Red Men's Membership Contest Go On To May.

An extension of 30 days was given the membership contest in the meeting of the Red Men last night. The banquet and initiation will take place the first Friday night sleep in May. The two sides, Householder's Howling Heroes and Buck's Bonnie Braves, are working energetically to win, as the side that gets the most members, will have the banquet given to them by the losing side. At present it looks as though 50 new members would be added in the contest.

It was a star service, and the money raised by the Easter offering was $115, of this $55.45 was secured by the children. The music and recitations were attractively given.

President Will Not Make The Speech
The Illinois Business Men Demanded

Washington, D. C., April 1.—It seems definitely decided that President Roosevelt after all will not accept the invitation of the Illinois Manufacturers' association to speak at Springfield on the railroad and industrial situation.

It is a matter of keen regret to the president that conditions here will not permit him to visit the capital of Illinois at this time. The invitation attracted him because it did not come from railroads nor shippers, but from the manufacturers and their allied interests, which desired a statement from the president which would allay the timidity which has developed recently. Then, too, the fact that he was asked to speak at Springfield, Lincoln's old home, appealed powerfully to Mr. Roosevelt, who entertains unbounded admiration for the life and character of the civil war martyr.

Moreover at first it seemed to the president it might be a good thing to say something along the lines indicated by the committee representing the Illinois Manufacturers' association. But it became evident that whatever he might say would do no special good for the reason that he would only reiterate what he has said time and again, and what the country now understands.

Nothing to Add to Statements.

He would say that the railroad rate law passed at the last session of congress should be perfected by additional legislation; that that legislation should be in the direction of greater federal supervision; that his acts and his policies were not responsible for the timidity which had developed in business and financial affairs, but that the rottenness of corporate methods illustrated in the Harriman investigation was responsible.

The president has said these same things to railroad presidents and financiers who have called upon him at the white house. He said it today to August Belmont, the New York banker, and ex-Congressman J. M. Levy, who has large financial interests in New York.

The president has had these and other men of large financial and railroad interests run to him for protection against the states, and in the first session of the last congress suffered from their attacks because of his policy to increase federal supervision of interstate carriers.

President Gives No Pledge.

He has told these men that he is glad to listen to whatever they may say, but he has not bound himself to follow their advice. As he said to one of his callers today, congress is the only body with which he will cooperate to secure the additional railroad legislation which he considers imperative.

Secretary Root and Secretary Cortelyou have been two of the members of the cabinet who have advised the president against making a speech at Springfield. They fear that a precedent will be established under which the president will have to make a speech every time there is a flurry in Wall street. How embarrassing this would be is apparent after a moment's reflection.

PEOPLE AND SOCIAL EVENTS

A Beautiful "In Memoriam."

A most beautiful and appropriate tribute was made on Easter by the Magazine club to the memory of Mrs. Bertie Fowler Campbell, who was for five years the president of the club, in the very highest and finest meaning of the office, and whose going from their midst has meant a most personal loss to the club.

The tribute is in the form of a book gotten up by a committee appointed by the club: Mrs. Charles K. Wheeler, Mrs. Frank L. Scott, Miss Minnie Ratcliffe and Miss Frances Gould. It was sent on Easter morning to Mrs. Campbell's mother, Mrs. Laura Fowler, accompanied by a beautiful bunch of Easter lilies, and the whole was an inspiring message of the resurrection hope and promise and of a life made undying by the grace of kindness and acts of thoughtfulness.

The little book is exquisitely gotten up in white and gold, the covers are of vellum, adorned with a stalk of Easter lilies and tied with a cord of gold. The leaves are of parchment and the whole is most artistically illuminated by hand, the work of Miss Frances Gould, who is a skillful artist. The first page has "In Memoriam," exquisitely lettered. On the second page is "I am the Resurrection and the Life." The third page bears the words "Tribute of Love to Our President Bertie Fowler Campbell—Magazine Club, 1907." On another page is the appropriate quotation from Proverbs 31:26: "She openeth her mouth with wisdom; and in her tongue is the law of kindness." A beautiful tribute to Mrs. Campbell follows, written by Mrs. Mildred Fowler Davis, a member of the club. It has for its theme "The Art of Kindness," the little motto that hung beside Mrs. Campbell's bed and which she had made particularly her own in a life of gracious deeds, unobtrusively done. The heart poem "Some time" closes the little Easter book.

Regularly appropriate is the charming book and thought to one who had made it a rule of her later years to each day do an act of kindness and to learn something. Such as she may rest from their labors, but their work do follow them.

Charity Club Tea.

The Charity club will have an Easter Tea Tuesday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock at the home of the president, Mrs. George C. Wallace, on North Ninth street. There will be a delightful musical program rendered during the afternoon by: Mrs. James Welles, Mrs. David M. Flournoy, Mrs. George B. Hart, Miss Anne Bradshaw, Miss Adah Brazelton, Miss Mary Bondurant, Mr. Richard Scott and Clark and Robert Bondurant. Light refreshments will be served and home-made candy will be for sale. A free-will offering will be made by the guests, and the club asks for a large attendance and liberal patronage. Their work during the past winter has been a very fine one, and the desire is now to establish it upon a permanent basis that will meet the growing needs of Paducah as a city. The Tea is given to further this good work.

a dress rehearsal so the children are requested not to wear their costumes.

MISS LIZZIE LEONARD, DEMENTED, ENDS LIFE.

Makes Calm Preparations, Lies Down and Swallows Laudanum and Carbolic Acid.

Miss Lizzie Leonard, 45 years old, a resident of Paducah the greater part of her life, committed suicide Saturday night at her residence, 1309 South Ninth street by drinking an ounce of laudanum and an ounce of carbolic acid. The bedding had been nicely arranged and her room placed in the best of order. From indications she carefully planned her death. The drugs were taken about 11 o'clock and her unconscious form was discovered by friends. They had not seen her all day Saturday and presumed her to have taken suddenly ill, and being alone wanted to aid her. The deceased wrote a letter to her brother, William Leonard, of Fifth and Elizabeth streets, shortly before she took the drugs. Coroner Frank Eaker was summoned and Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock held an inquest at the house.

The Verdict.

"We, the jury, empaneled to investigate into the death of Lizzie Leonard, after making a careful investigation and hearing evidence, find from the evidence that she came to her death by taking carbolic acid and laudanum while temporarily deranged. FORAKER CALLED BY TAFT LETTER

Burton Eliminated From Situation in Ohio

Contest Between Secretary of War and Senator in Popular Primary.

PUTS FIRE ALARM IN HOLE

Cincinnati O., April 1.—Secretary Taft has thrown a bomb into the Foraker camp by declaring himself a candidate for the United States senate as well as for the presidency. With this announcement comes a curious challenge to Foraker. In a word, Taft proposes to tie the senatorial and presidential questions together and submit them to the voters at a primary election.

Means Foraker Must Get Out.

If the Republican primaries decide in favor of Taft, Foraker is to withdraw from the senatorial race as well as from the presidential contest. In that event Taft will be the next United States senator from Ohio if he is not nominated for the presidency.

If Taft is beaten at the primaries he agrees to withdraw from the presidential contest and also will keep out of the senatorial contest.

Whether Foraker will accept the challenge remains to be seen. In his own challenge early in the week he indicated that he looked upon Congressman Burton as his only rival in the senatorial race. His proposal was framed so as to remove Taft from the presidential contest and Burton from the senatorial race at the same time.

Secretary Taft's Challenge.

Secretary Taft's challenge to Foraker was made public this afternoon by his brother, Charles P. Taft. It is as follows:

"Senator Foraker's statement indicates that he is running for the presidency and for the senatorship. The friends of Secretary Taft are urging him for the presidency. As the senator has included the two offices in his primary contest, Secretary Taft's friends accept the proposition and will make it a distinct contest: Taft for the presidency or senatorship, or Foraker for the presidency or senatorship.

"If the Republicans of Ohio by their votes at the primaries indicate that they prefer Foraker for the presidency or senatorship, Secretary Taft is eliminated from the situation. "If the people of Ohio indicate Secretary Taft for the presidency or senatorship, Senator Foraker is eliminated from the political situation in Ohio.

"This is a direct contest between the friends of the administration of President Roosevelt and his opponents. We are willing to submit it to the Republican voters of Ohio, and the sooner the better."

Puts Foraker in a Hole?

The adroitness of this challenge is seen when its full effect is understood. It knocks out a scheme whereby Foraker hoped to make the issue between Foraker standing alone for RHEUMATISM WILL GO.

Shake well in a bottle the following: Fluid Extract Dandelion one-half ounce, Compound Kargon one ounce, and Compound Syrup Sarsaparilla three ounces. Take for each dose one teaspoonful after your meals and at bedtime, drinking plenty of good water.

A well-known authority states that any good prescription pharmacy can supply the ingredients, which can be easily mixed at home.

This mixture will act directly upon the kidneys, removing obstructions that clog the process of eliminating waste matter and acids which produce Rheumatism, Bladder and Urinary difficulties and other affections resulting from soured blood, which the kidneys failed to keep clean and pure.

The worst forms of Rheumatism are said to be really overcome without the slightest injury or ill feeling to the stomach or digestive organs.

either the presidency or re-election to the senate, and Taft for the presidency alone, and Congressman Theodore Burton for the senatorship alone.

Now Taft proposes to keep Burton out of the dispute altogether, and thus when the contest reaches a climax it will be between Foraker and Taft only. The effect would be to lift the controversy out of the factional fight which has been on in the state for a long time, and permit thousands of workers in the state organization—now dominated by Senator Foraker and Dick—to support Taft without breaking away from the organization.

If Burton for the senatorship were kept to the foreground there would be valid objections to these workers leaving the organization, because Burton has steadily fought the machine.

Ohio a Storm Center.

Taft's challenge makes it certain that Ohio is to become immediately a storm center of politics, and that, too, in an off year. Although there are no state officers to nominate or any occasion for a state primary, it is likely now that there will be a primary, and probably also a convention, to determine whether Taft or Foraker is to be Ohio's choice. The controversy which has been worked up during the last week or so is to be profile of action immediately.

When it was announced a week ago that the Taft people had induced State Insurance Commissioner Vorys to undertake their campaign, thus indicating that they were going to force the fighting, Foraker came out in a hot statement demanding a settlement of the Taft-Foraker issue by the next state convention, to which he said delegates should be elected by primaries.

The Taft people followed with the intimation that they were only too glad to have a decision by the party in this manner, but they insisted that the decision be reached this year. The Foraker people wished to let the matter go over until next year, when there will be a regular primary, but Taft refused a continuance.

Foraker Stands Pat.

Washington, D. C., April 1.—"I don't think that needs any answer from me," was the brief statement made by Senator Foraker tonight when his attention was called to the statement issued by Charles P. Taft, brother and campaign manager of the secretary of war.

"Do you mean that you stand by your original declaration?" the senator was asked.

"Exactly. It is not necessary to add anything one way or the other to what I already have said."

The greatest surprise was expressed in Washington when the news was circulated that the Taft statement had been issued. It was the understanding here that nothing of the kind was to be done, and, indeed, it is an open secret that a cablegram was sent by the president or some of his friends, urging Taft to remain silent and to let events take care of themselves.

Charles P. Taft, however, seems to have had a communication of some kind.

It is still not believed in Washington that Secretary Taft will enter into a joint debate with Senator Foraker. To do so undoubtedly would be to place him at a disadvantage. President Roosevelt is quite prepared to let Ohio and the entire country know what he thinks about the senator from the Buckeye state, and during the campaign probably will be heard from, especially if Foraker attacks the administration.

W. ALBERT BISHOP GIVES UP AT LAST

Brave Struggle Against Disease For Years

Well Known and Popular River and Railroad Man Dies At Father's Home.

MANY RELATIVES AND FRIENDS

Mr. Albert W. Bishop, 37 years old, one of the most popular river and lodge men in Paducah, died Sunday morning of Bright's disease and complications, at his father's home in Brandenburg, Ky., after an illness of several months. His health had been failing for a year and his physicians gave up hope the middle of March and sent him home from Hot Springs.

At Bishop was born in Brandenburg and in early youth went into the river business. He was for 20 years clerk on the steamers Butterff and J. R. Rhea. Leaving the river, he went into the laundry business remaining in it for nine months. He then went into the railroad service, serving as cashier in the Illinois Central freight department at Paducah for three years. One year ago his health began to fail. He was advised several months ago to seek rest, and five weeks ago went to Hot Springs. He was suffering from dropsy, heart trouble and Bright's disease. March 15 his condition became such that physicians advised him to go home, realizing his condition was hopeless. He gradually sank until death relieved his suffering Sunday morning shortly after 6 o'clock. He was a member of Paducah lodge No. 217, B. P. O. E., and was one of its most popular members. He was married in 1901 to Miss Katherine Reed, of Nashville, and leaves a wife, father, mother and two brothers, Messrs. J. H. Bishop, of Brandenburg, and Ernest Bishop, of Louisville. The funeral was conducted this afternoon at 3 o'clock at his father's home in Brandenburg. The burial was in the family cemetery.

Mrs. Nellie D. Landergreen.

Mrs. Nellie D. Landergreen, 25 years old, wife of Mr. L. V. Landergreen, window decorator for B. Wellie & Son store, died Saturday afternoon at Riverside hospital of peritonitis. She was stricken with appendicitis three weeks ago and removed to Riverside hospital. The deceased was born in Meriville, Mo., and had been married but a few years. She made many friends in Paducah during her three months residence in the city and they were shocked to learn of her death. Sunday morning at 9 o'clock funeral services were held by the Rev. J. R. Henry, of the Sixth and Kentucky Avenue Presbyterian church, officiating. The burial was in Oak Grove cemetery.

Culley's Get Two Earned Runs But Visitors Have Too Great Lead To Be Overcome.

The Metropolis Blues took advantage of the Culley's nervousness Sunday afternoon in the first inning and ran in five scores winning the game by a margin of three. The Cul-ley team made two earned runs, but not enough to win the game.

The game began at 3 o'clock and the Blues went to the bat first. Several muffs of flies and one or two fumbles on the part of infielders filled the bases and a nice double to left center brought in three runs. More fumbling caused two more to tally. After that the Culley's settled and played good ball.

Dye and Doyle worked for the visitors and Arnold and Block for the Culley team. Gus Brabie umpired.

The next game will be played Sunday at Wallace park between the same teams.

Do You Open Your Mouth

Like a young bird and gulp down whatever food or medicine may be offered you? Or, do you want to know something of the composition and character of that which you take into your stomach whether as food or medicine?

Most intelligent and sensible people now-a-days insist on knowing what they employ whether as food or as medicine. Dr. Pierce believes they have a perfect right to insist upon such knowledge. So he publishes—second and on each bottle—his book, "The Favorite Prescription," which his medicines are made of, and which he can well afford to do because the more the ingredients of which his medicines are made are studied and understood the more will their superior curative virtues be appreciated.

For the cure of woman's peculiar weaknesses, irregularities and derangements, giving rise to frequent headaches, backache, dragging-down pain or distress in lower abdominal or pelvic region, accompanied, of course, with a debilitating, pelvic, catarrhal drain and kindred symptoms of weakness, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a most efficient remedy. It is equally effective in curing painful periods, in giving strength to nursing mothers and in preparing the system of the expectant mother for baby's coming, thus rendering childbirth safe and comparatively painless. The "Favorite Prescription" is a most potent, strengthening tonic to the general system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. It is also a soothing and invigorating nerve and cures nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, chorea or St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms attendant upon functional and organic diseases of the distinctly feminine organs.

A host of medical authorities of all the great schools of practice recommend each of the several ingredients of which "Favorite Prescription" is made for the cure of the diseases for which it is claimed to be a cure. You may read what they say for yourself by sending a postal card request for a free booklet of extracts from the leading authorities, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y., and it will come to you by return post.

Magnificent Banquet and Some Happy Toasts Mark Meeting Saturday Night.

Post A, of Paducah, of the Travelers' Protective association, tendered over 100 guests one of the most elaborate banquets given this season, at the Palmer House Saturday night. The dining room was tastefully decorated and the fare the best procurable.

Mr. Ernest Lackey was the master of ceremonies and no one was overlooked. Mr. Sol Dreyfuss presided as toastmaster in delightful style.

Toasts were made by the following: T. B. Harrison, "T. P. A., a Power in This Country." Earl Palmer, "Use of the Drummer from a Practical Business Man." J. T. Donovan, "How the Best Service Can Be Given from Transportation Companies." J. A. Benedict, "Why the T. P. A. Should Become a Benedict."

Thirty new members were initiated at a meeting of the post held at the Palmer after the banquet. A special train bringing 40 visitors came from St. Louis in the early evening, and guests from Louisville, Nashville and Memphis were also conspicuous. The "Flying Squadron," to solicit new members, did not arrive as expected.

CHAPTER XXXIV.
TO fully appreciate a great announcement we must have time at our disposal. At the moment of Loder's disclosure time was denied to Eve, for secretly had the words left his lips before the thought that dominated him asserted its prior claim. Blind to the incredulity in her eyes, he drew her swiftly forward and—half impelling, half supporting her—forced her to descend the stairs.

Never in after life could he obliterate the remembrance of that descent. Fear, such as he could never experience in his own concerns; possessed him. One desire overrode all others, the desire that Eve's reputation, which he himself had so nearly imperiled, should remain unimpaired. In the shadow of that urgent duty, the despair of the past hours, the appalling fact so lately realized, the future, with its possible trials, became dark to his imagination. In his new victory over self the question of her protection predominated.

Moving under his compulsion, he guided her hastily and silently down the deserted stairs, drawing a breath of deep relief as one after another the landings were successively passed, and still actuated by the suppressed need of haste, he passed through the doorway that they had entered under such different conditions only a few minutes before.

To leave the quiet court, to gain the Strand, to hail a belated hansom, was the work of a moment. By an odd contrivance of circumstance the luck that had attended every phase of his dual life was again exerted in his behalf. No one had noticed their entry into Clifford's inn; no one was moved to curiosity by their exit. With an involuntary thrill of feeling he gave expression to his relief.

"Thank God it's over!" he said as a cab drew up. "You don't know what the strain has been."

Moving as if in a dream, Eve stepped into the cab. As yet the terrible denouement to their enterprise had made no clear impression upon her mind. For the moment all that she was conscious of, of all that she instinctively acknowledged, was the fact that Loder was still beside her.

In quiet obedience she took her place, drawing aside her skirts to make room for him, and in the same subdued manner he stepped into the vehicle. Then, with the strange sensation of reliving their earlier drive, they were aware of the tightened rein and of the horse's first forward movement.

For several seconds neither spoke. Eve, shutting out all other thoughts, sat close to Loder, clinging tenaciously to the momentary comforting sense of protection. Loder, striving to marshal his ideas, hesitated before the order of speech. At last, realizing his responsibility, he turned to her slowly.

"Eve," he said in a low voice and with some hesitation, "I want you to know that in all this—from the moment I saw him—from the moment I understood—I have had you in my thoughts—and no one else."

She raised her eyes to his face. "Do you realize?" he began afresh. "Do you know what this—this thing means?"

Still she remained silent. "It means that after tonight there will be no such person in London as John Loder. Tomorrow the man who was known by that name will be found in his rooms; his body will be removed, and at the post mortem examination it will be stated that he died of an overdose of morphine. His charwoman will identify him as a solitary man who lived and died respectfully for years and then suddenly went down hill with remarkable speed. It will be quite a common case. Nothing of interest will be found in his rooms. No relation will claim his body. After the usual time he will be given the usual burial of his class. These details are horrible, but there are times when we must look at the horrible side of life, because life is incomplete without it."

"These things I speak of are the things that will meet the casual eye, but in our sight they will have a very different meaning."

"Eve," he said, more vehemently, "a whole chapter in my life has been closed tonight, and my first instinct is to shut the book and throw it away. But I'm thinking of you. Remember, I'm thinking of you. Whatever the trial, whatever the difficulty, no harm shall come to you. You have my word for that."

"I'll return with you now to Grosvenor square. I'll remain there till a reasonable excuse can be given for Chilcote's going abroad. I will avoid Fraide. I will cut politics—whatever the cost. Then at the first reasonable moment I will do what I would do now, tonight, if it were possible. I'll go away, start afresh; do in another country what I have done in this."

There was a long silence; then Eve turned to him. The apathy of a moment before had left her face. "In another country?" she repeated. "In another country?"

"Yes, a fresh career in a fresh country, something clean to offer you. I'm not too old to do what other men have done."

He paused, and for a moment Eve looked ahead at the gleaming chain of lamps. Then very slowly she brought her glance back again. "No," she said very slowly. "You are not too old. But there are times when age—and things like age—are not the real consideration. It seems to me that your own inclination, your own individual sense of right and wrong, has nothing to do with the present moment. The question is whether you are justified in going away"—she paused, her eyes fixed steadily upon his—"whether you are free to go away and make a new life, whether it is ever justifiable to follow a phantom light when there's a lantern waiting to be carried." Her breath caught. She drew away from him, frightened and elated by her own words.

Loder turned to her sharply. "Eve!" he exclaimed; then his tone changed. "You don't know what you're saying," he added quickly. "You don't understand what you're saying."

Eve leaned forward again. "Yes," she said slowly. "I do understand." Her voice was controlled, her manner convinced. She was no longer the girl conquered by strength greater than her own. She was the woman strenuously demanding her right to individual happiness.

"I understand it all," she repeated. "I understand every point. It was not chance that made you change your identity, that made you care for me, that brought about—his death. I don't believe it was chance. I believe it was something much higher. You are not meant to go away."

As Loder watched her the remembrance of his first days as Chilcote rose again, the remembrance of how he had been dimly filled with the belief that below her self-possession lay a strength—a depth—unknown in woman. As he studied her now the instinctive belief flamed into conviction. "Eve!" he said involuntarily.

With a quick gesture she raised her hand. "No!" she exclaimed. "No; don't say anything. You are going to see things as I see them—you must do so. You have no choice. No real man ever casts away the substance for the shadow." Her eyes shone—the color, the glow, the vitality, rushed back into her face.

"John," she said softly, "I love you, and I need you, but there is something with a greater claim—a greater need than mine. Don't you know what it is?"

He said nothing. He made no gesture. "It is the party—the country. You may put love aside, but duty is different. You have pledged yourself. You are not meant to draw back."

Loder's lips parted. "Don't say anything. I know all that is in your mind. But when we sit things right through it isn't my love—or our happiness—that's really in the balance. It is your future." Her voice thrilled. "You are going to be a great man, and a great man is the property of his country. He has no right to individual action."

Again Loder made an effort to speak, but again she checked him. "Wait!" she exclaimed. "Wait! You believe you have acted wrongly, and you are desperately afraid of acting wrongly again. But is it really true, more loyal for us to work out a long probation in grooves that are already overfilled than to marry quietly abroad and fill the places that have need of us? That is the question I want you to answer. Is it really truer and nobler? Oh, I see the doubt that is in your mind! You think it finer to go away and make a new life than to live the life that is waiting you—because one is independent and the other means the use of another man's name and another man's money—that is the thought in your mind. But what is it that prompts that thought? Again her voice caught, but her eyes did not falter. "I will tell you. It is not self sacrifice, but pride." She said the word fearlessly.

A flush crossed Loder's face. "A man requires pride," he said in a low voice.

"Yes, at the right time. But is this the right time? Is it ever right to throw away the substance for the shadow? You say that I don't understand—don't realize. I realize more tonight than I have realized in all my life. I know that you have an opportunity that can never come again and that it's terribly possible to let it slip."

She paused. Loder, his hands resting on her shoulders, looked into her eyes. "My consent or refusal lies with—my wife."

James Warren, a farm laborer, 82 years old, died recently in Edworth, England, after having worked on the same farm for 75 years.

PUBLIC NOTICE.

To the People of Paducah.

All persons in Paducah must hold themselves responsible for any weakness or suffering caused from old age, chronic coughs or colds, bronchitis, weak lungs, run-down conditions, stomach troubles, nervousness or poor blood when we are willing to sell them the real cod liver preparation, Vinol, and return their money if it does not benefit.

The reason Vinol is so successful in restoring health and creating strength is because it contains in addition to tonic iron all the medicinal elements of cod liver oil actually taken from fresh cods' livers, but without oil or grease to upset the stomach and retard its work.

Unlike old-fashioned cod liver oil and emulsions, it is deliciously palatable, agreeable to the weakest stomach, therefore, unequalled as a strength creator and tonic reconstructor.

Our local druggist, W. B. McPherson, says: "It is because we know so well of what Vinol is made that we ask every run-down, nervous, debilitated, aged or weak person in Paducah, and every person suffering from stubborn colds, hanging-on coughs, bronchitis or incipient consumption, to try Vinol on our guarantee." W. B. McPherson, Druggist.

Note—While we are sole agents for Vinol in Paducah, it is now for sale at the leading drug store in nearly every town and city in the country. Look for the Vinol agency in your town.

ing on the closed doors of the cab, sat very silent, with averted eyes and bent head.

"Only tonight," she went on, "you told me that everything was crying to you to take the easy, pleasant way. Then it was strong to turn aside, but now it is not strong. It is far nobler to fill an empty niche than to carve one for yourself. John"—she suddenly leaned forward, laying her hands over his—"Mr. Fraide told me tonight that in his new ministry my—my husband was to be undersecretary for foreign affairs."

The words fell softly, so softly that to ears less comprehending than Loder's their significance might have been lost, as his rigid attitude and unresponsive manner might have conveyed lack of understanding to any eyes less observant than Eve's.

For a long space there was no word spoken. At last, with a very gentle pressure, her fingers tightened over his hands.

"John," she began gently, but the word died away. She drew back into her seat as the cab stopped before Chilcote's house.

Simultaneously as they descended the hall door was opened and a flood of warm light poured out reassuringly into the darkness.

"I thought it was your cab, sir," Crapman exclaimed deferentially as they passed into the hall. "Mr. Fraide has been waiting to see you this half hour. I showed him into the study."

He closed the door softly and retired. Then in the warm light, amid the gravely dignified surroundings that had marked his first entry into this hazardous second existence, Eve turned to Loder for the verdict upon which the future hung.

As she turned his face was still hidden from her, and his attitude betrayed nothing.

"John," she said slowly, "you know why he is here. You know that he has come to personally offer you this place, to personally receive your refusal—or consent."

She ceased to speak, there was a moment of suspense, then Loder turned. His face was still pale and grave with the gravity of a man who has but recently been close to death, but beneath the gravity was another look, the old expression of strength and self reliance, tempered, raised and dignified by a new humility.

Moving forward, he held out his hands. "My consent or refusal," he said very quietly, "lies with—my wife."

Kentucky Post Takes Census of Leaders of Party

Governor Hughes, of New York, Is Also Prominent As Presidential Possibility.

HOW THE STRAW VOTE STOOD

Covington, Ky., April 1.—While the Democrats of Kentucky are resting on their oars, having by primary nominated Governor J. C. W. Beckham for United States senator and S. W. Hager for governor, the Republicans have no well-defined plan as to their state ticket, while the question of endorsing the candidacy of any presidential aspirant is also causing much comment.

The Post has taken a poll of 100 of the most prominent Republicans of Kentucky, numbering in the list former appellate judges, congressmen, mayors, state senators and representatives and editors of Republican newspapers.

They were asked to answer the following questions: What do you think of the third term for Roosevelt?

Barring him, who is your choice for president? Your second? Your third?

Who is your choice for vice-president? For governor of Kentucky? For United States senator from Kentucky?

A number of federal office holders and some few others declined to answer at this time, the federal employees evidently being under orders. Many declined to express an opinion about the national pace, but expressed a preference for governor or for senator.

The results, carefully tabulated, show that the sentiment of Kentucky Republicans is rapidly crystallizing around the names of W. H. Taft, the war secretary, and C. E. Hughes, governor of New York. The majority of those who answered gave it as their opinion either that they pre-dent should be taken at his word in declining to run again, or that it was bad policy to nominate him. Outside of Taft, Vice-President Fairbanks was the second choice of most of those who responded, and Ellihu Root, secretary of state, was third. Others for whom straw votes were cast were Speaker Cannon, Leslie M. Shaw, former Secretary of the treasury, and Senator Robert La Follette.

The poll shows a decided preference for the Hon. A. E. Wilson, of Louisville, for the governorship, with Yerkes second. For senator, the majority preferred former Governor W. O. Bradley.

The figures in detail are as follows:

Third term for Roosevelt, 32; against it, 52.

For President—First choice: Taft, 54; Fairbanks, 10; Leslie M. Shaw, 2; Joe Cannon, 2; Senator Beveridge, 2; Hughes, 4; Root, 4.

Second choice: Fairbanks, 20; Cannon, 10; Root, 10; Taft, 6; scattering, 14.

Third choice: Hughes, 12; Cannon, 10; Root, 14; scattering, 12.

For Vice-President—Hughes, 22; Fairbanks, 8; Yerkes, 6; scattering, 15.

For Governor of Kentucky—Wilson, 40; Yerkes, 16; E. C. O'Rear, 10; A. R. Burnam, 4; J. W. Lewis, 4; Judge James Breathitt, 4; Judge W. H. Holt, 6; E. T. Franks, 2.

For United States Senator—Bradley, 38; Yerkes, 14; R. P. Ernst, 4; A. E. Wilson, 2; Congressman D. C. Edwards, 6; Judge Holt, 2; Judge T. Z. Morrow, 1.

The list of those who did not answer is quite as interesting as that of those who did. R. E. Woods, postmaster; J. A. Craft, collector of internal revenue; Judge George D. Rele, district attorney, and W. G. Dearing, surveyor of the port, all of Louisville, declined to answer.

Hard Times in Kansas.

The old days of grasshoppers and drouth are almost forgotten in the prosperous Kansas of today; although a citizen of Codell, Earl Shamburg, has not yet forgotten a hard time he encountered. Seven Reasons Why These Corsets Contribute to Comfort, Beauty and Health:

FIRST—They are the only successful corsets with the Habit Back. Without the habit back no figure can show to perfection.

SECOND—The Front Lacing is convenient. The corset can be adjusted on the wearer, and the adjustment is in front, where it is needed, and where you can see the need.

THIRD—These front laced corsets are the only ones imparting the genuine Straight Front. They are light in weight, flexible and but little boning is used.

FOURTH—They are a Physical Culture corset. They act as a support to the abdomen and back. They are comfortable. Thousands of customers attest that their figures are improved and comfort increased. They wear them from rising to retiring.

FIFTH—They have the Long Hip, which confines the hips that are over large and defines the hips of the slight figure.

SIXTH—The corset materials are of great textile strength, and especially manufactured for these corsets. The boning is a secret process and better than any other. The workmanship on these corsets is the best in the world. They are honorable goods.

SEVENTH—These corsets lengthen the waist, reduce the abdominal measures and add grace and style to the wearer.

We Are Enabled to Announce That Mme. Taylor, the Expert Corsetiere From Chicago,

Has been sent by the manufacturers to exploit and fit these wonderful corsets to our customers and the ladies of Paducah and vicinity who are interested not only in preserving the beauty of their figures, but in correcting whatever difficulty may exist.

We, feeling that the ladies of Paducah were in need of a strictly high-class corset and a place where corsets could be fitted to each special figure, have put this line of corsets in, after much deliberation on its qualities, and think that we have found the most adaptable and most comfortable corset that can be purchased on the market. Hence, we have added, on our second floor, a strictly Corset Department and will continue to handle this line from now on, fitting each corset. Mme. Taylor, of Chicago, will be here for ten days or two weeks. She is an expert corsetiere and gives special fittings. After she leaves the work will be taken up by our own demonstrator.

"Creating the style that is style, with comfort to the wearer, is my province with the Gossard front laced corset," said Mme. Taylor, and she wants to show every fashionable woman in Paducah that she can improve her figure beyond her utmost expectation. If you have fallen into the "rut" of buying some special corset you believe is adapted to your figure, be fitted to one of these front laced corsets and see with delight how much it improves you. If you would pay $2.00 for a back laced corset, we ask you to be fitted to one of these front laced corsets at $5.00, and when you see the improvement you will do without something else, but you will have the Gossard corset. The scientific and practical training given Mme. Taylor by the manufacturers, enables her to correctly select the model suited to your particular requirement. Mme. Taylor will be with us the next ten days or two weeks, and she requests that we urge you to come early, as the latter part of her stay will be fraught with tremendous detail. Be sure to meet Mme. Taylor. Buy your corset now for the foundation of the new gown and get the benefit of her scientific fitting of this marvelous corset, which is found in no other store in Paducah.

They Lace In Front

The single fact that they lace in front makes them superior to all other corsets. The principle of construction is right—right for grace—right for health—right for style.

Educate People to High Ideals as a Remedy for Civic Evils

Closing his series of sermons on civic evils, Dr. W. T. Bolling at the Broadway Methodist church last night discussed the remedies for the conditions which he outlined in preceding sermons. Dr. Bolling took a nation-wide view of his subject, particularizing only occasionally and applying to local conditions rarely. He prefaced his remarks by professing a deep-rooted conviction of the honesty of the great mass of the people. Losing confidence in them, he said, we lose confidence in God. In tracing the causes and effects of those moral awakenings of the people popularly called reforms, he adduced that too many laws resulted on our statute books. This was the result of a mistaken idea on the part of the people, as to the purpose of laws. Laws, he thought, were to help the government execute its purposes, while we too frequently pass them to make the people good. Laws come forth of the people and none can be passed which can adequately work in a retroactive manner. Reforms which end with a number of laws designed to make the people good, therefore, are superficial and do not strike at all at the roots of the evil. Nations, no more than individuals, Dr. Bolling continued, will not get above their ideals. If this government is good today it is because its founders had high ideals, and if we would make it better, or even preserve it, we must ourselves retain those ideals and cultivate them. He said the conditions under which our government was born, gave it a deep religious tone, religious in a broader sense than any creed. Hence he said to get genuine reform, we must educate the people along idealistic lines and the three instruments working to that end most profoundly today, he said, are the press, pulpit and school. He frankly attributed the most importance to the press in this educative movement and expressed confidence in its high moral tone. In discussing the broad patriotism needed to preserve our country, he held President Roosevelt up as a model. Dr. Bolling wants a patriotism which is broader than any party, and said we must have a high individual standard. Keeping the vitality of the people fresh and strong through unceasing agitation of the common principles of morality, under the leadership of the press, pulpit and schools, he concluded, is the only hope of national self-preservation.

The river fell 3.2 in the last 48 hours, bringing the river down to 36.5. The fall in the last half of the 48 hours, 1.8, was .4 larger than for the first half.

The dapper excursion steamers, the J. S. and W. W. arrived from St. Louis to stay here for ten days, getting in shape for the season. They will run several excursions out of this place when the weather gets right.

The George Cowling made three trips yesterday in the Metropolis and Paducah trade. Business on the whole was good.

Towboats, big ones and little ones, kept the river hot here yesterday. Hundreds of thousands of bushels of coal passed down from Pittsburg. The big J. W. Williams, John A. Wood, J. F. Finley, the Pacific No. 2, and the Boaz all passed down. The Boaz has not been in this harbor in many months. They will all stop at various points on the Mississippi river, as far down as New Orleans. The Reaper will come in from Pittsburg tonight with coal for the West Kentucky Coal company, 15 pieces, and will stop here.

S. A. Coram, the popular engineer on the Dick Fowler, has turned renegade, and will go to clod-hopping for the rest of the summer. He left today for his farm in Golconda and his place on the boat was taken by Ellis Ford. Coram stayed around until the boat left this morning to see if she possibly could leave without him. She did. Ford came from the J. B. Richardson.

Two new towboats will be added to Paducah's banner list. The Mildred arrived yesterday from the Tennessee river and went up to Cincinnati. It is understood that this boat with another will come here shortly to run out of this port.

The Harth went to Caseyville after coal yesterday. The T. H. Davis went back to Joppla Sunday after a brief visit. The Scotia arrived last night with the biggest raft ever brought out of the Tennessee river, and will go back to the Tennessee river Tuesday after telephone poles for the A. B. Smith Lumber company. The I. N. Hook went up the Cumberland river yesterday after ties. The Pavonia did not arrive until today from the Cumberland river with ties. The Russell Lord will be in today or tomorrow from the Tennessee river with ties.

Lee Rhodes, head clerk on the Dick Fowler, is the father of a girl baby born Saturday night. She will be the mascot of the Dick Fowler.

The Clyde and the Maud Kilgore at the ways will get into the river Thursday. The Clyde will go back to the Tennessee river trade, and the Memphis, which has been filling the Clyde's place so admirably, will go back to St. Louis, or probably will be repaired here.

The John S. Hopkins left on time for Evansville this morning.

The Dick Fowler and officers fresh from Sunday's rest, left on time at 8 o'clock this morning for Cairo.

The Memphis will arrive tonight from the Tennessee river.

CAN'T BE SEPARATED.

Some Paducah People Have Learned How to Get Rid of Both.

Backache and kidney ache are twin brothers. You can't separate them.

And you can't get rid of the back ache until you cure the kidney ache. If the kidneys are well and strong, the rest of the system is pretty sure to be in vigorous health.

Doan's Kidney Pills make strong, healthy kidneys.

Thomas Housman, of 1143 North Thirteenth street, Paducah, Ky., says: "Doan's Kidney Pills which I procured at DuBois Son & Co.'s drug store a few months ago have done more for me than any other medicine I have ever taken for lame back and kidney trouble. For a time my kidneys were so bad that I was not able to work and was under the doctor's care for some time. I finally got relief and went back to work, but I suffered most of the time with my back until I began using Doan's Kidney Pills. They gave me relief in a short time and now I feel as if I could not do without them in the house. A few doses taken now and then keep me free from pain, no lame back, and I am able to work every day without suffering. It is a great comfort to know of a remedy that can be relied upon and I know that Doan's Kidney Pills are such."

March on the rivers has been in many ways distinctive. A flood came a little out of season, business has been unusually good, only an average amount of rainfall, and comparatively few accidents. The highest stage of the month was 42.3. Practically all of this great volume of water came from above, local rains playing an insignificant part, exactly opposite from the January flood. All of the 4.38 inches that fell, fell in the first half of the month, except the fraction .36 inches having fallen last week. Business throughout the month was fine, and with the opening of the excursion season and the addition of several boats to the local fleet, will sustain and swell the volume in April.

Modern Progress vs. Past Fame

"Age is no longer the assurance of a good demand that it once was. There are distinguished old pianos, whose past fame has stood in the light of modern progress. Monuments tell of good deeds past and done. Living deeds tell of what is going on to-day."

Musical Courier.

That is a plain truth, well expressed, based upon expert observation and induced by unbiased judgment.

The Baldwin Piano

is, in pianodom, the illustrious exponent of modern progress. Its beauty of tone, full of human expression and delicate shading, pure and noble, is coupled with efficient tone-sustaining power and perfect workmanship. It is a splendid example of living deeds telling of what is going on to-day.

These outside connecting rods save stove trouble.

The ship was lost because of a broken rudder---the engine was wrecked because of a missing pin---the stove was worthless because of a burned-out connecting rod.

It's the little things which often cause the greatest trouble. It's the lack of right construction that causes most stove troubles.

Buck's stoves and ranges are bound together by connecting rods---which are outside of the stove---away from the fire---where there is no danger of their burning off. They will hold the stove together as long as there is any stove to hold.

This is simply one of the many advantages found in Buck's stoves and ranges. Let us tell you all about these stoves---and our exceptional terms and prices---today.

A dollar down and a dollar a week will buy one of these splendid stoves. You surely can't afford to miss this chance. Take advantage of it today.
